

Construction of the Alfred and Sarah Rosenbloom Center on Vision and Aging at the Illinois College of Optometry (ICO) Illinois Eye Institute is nearly complete. The center was established in 2012 by former ICO president Dr. Alfred Rosenbloom and his wife, Sarah, to provide unparalleled care to the aging population and patients with visual impairment. In addition to offering onsite care, the center focuses on educational outreach programs, community healthcare services and research. It will be officially dedicated on Jan. 18, 2015.

A rendering of the inside of the nearly completed Alfred and Sarah Rosenbloom Center on Vision and Aging.