

Compulink Announces Corporate Name Change to Compulink Healthcare Solutions

Compulink, a recognized leader in EHR and Practice Management solutions, announces it is changing its corporate name to Compulink Healthcare Solutions.

The name change comes as part of a rebranding effort to support the company's continued expansion into the enterprise healthcare IT with its flagship Advantage platform. The company's 2015 ONC Certified system is used by more than 20,000 providers in more than 4,700 locations.

Built on a single database, the Advantage all-in-one solution includes specialty-specific EHR for 19 specialties, along with practice management, Optical POS (for eyecare), inventory management, data analytics, patient engagement, and telehealth services. The company also offers solutions for ambulatory surgical centers and provides an expert revenue cycle management service for its clients.

"We wanted a company name that better represented the business we're in and scope of the value we provide to our client partners," said Link Wilson, CEO and founder of Compulink. "We're all about providing innovative healthcare IT solutions focused on optimizing practice efficiency while improving patient outcomes and financial results. We also wanted a name that reflects the increasing enterprise nature of our business in helping large clinics and equity businesses with robust, scalable solutions, and world-class service."

Founded in 1985 and privately held, Compulink is headquartered in Newbury Park, CA with 160 US-based employees. Compulink also recently doubled the size of its corporate campus with the addition of a 20,000-square foot adjacent building to support the company's projected growth.
